Urs Road, Sayyaji Rao Road to be No Parking Zones soon

Mysuru, Apr. 23 (MTY&BCT)- After several failed attempts to regulate the premium parking space on D. Devaraj Urs Road and Sayyaji Rao Road, the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) is all set to ban parking on the two roads once the multi-level parking system is ready at the Town Hall. And till the Town Hall parking facility is ready, pay-and-park system will be introduced on both roads to ease parking woes.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, MCC Commissioner G. Jagadeesha has said that the Corporation aimed at completing multi-level parking system before Dasara this year.

"Once it is ready, we will ban parking on Devaraj Urs Road and Sayyaji Rao Road. Visitors to these roads will have to park their vehicles at the Town Hall and then come on these roads," he said.

The MCC Commissioner has, however, clarified that there will be vehicle movement on these roads. "It will only be no-parking zones. We want to ensure that the roads are not clogged as they are now with motorists and pedestrians jostling for space. Till the multi-level parking system is ready, we want to implement the pay-and-park system," he said.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

The reign of English: There are anywhere from 17,000 to 28,000 academic journals around the world and 2.5 million articles published in them every year. Of these, anywhere between 15% and 35% of the journals are not in English language. Research publications in languages other than English lose out. This is particularly relevant and worrisome, since in such papers, a lot is reported on biodiversity, ecology and related subjects. And many of these journals do not find any place in standard link sites. Like it or not, English has willy-nilly turned out to be the lingua franca or the language of science and technology.

And how has this happened? Several historical events have made this so. A major one is the migration of scientists from Europe and the Soviet Union, during and after the two World Wars, to the two English-speaking nations, UK and USA, that welcomed them. Another is the result of colonisation of large chunks of the world, notably the Indian subcontinent, by Britain, and the introduction/imposition/gift/call-what-you-will of English to the local population. This allowed access to a cornucopia of material to the colonial subjects, many of whom took to learning and mastering English, and entering the larger world of science thereby. [An interesting reversal of this was by the Arabs who learnt and translated Sanskrit texts into Arabic and Persian thousands of years ago. Also interesting is the fact that two Indian scientists, Satyen Bose and Meghnad Saha translated scientific papers of Einstein and others, from German into (not Bengali but) English for their students].

Mobile works of art on filthy cars

Moscow: Nikita Golubev, aka ProBoyNick, is a talented illustrator from Moscow, Russia, who experiments with a variety of mediums, the most interesting of which is definitely dirt-covered cars in the Russian capital.

Proving that one man's filthy car is another's canvas, Golubev unleashes his artistic talents on dirt-covered cars he finds around Moscow, beautifying them with detailed landscapes, animal portraits and religious quotes that he scribbles into the layer of filth using his finger. It definitely beats having someone write "wash me" on your dirty car. No word yet on how the drivers feel about someone drawing on their dirty cars and potentially scratching them, but some of them are so good that I have a feeling Nikita's art makes owners postpone washing them at least until the first rain. In fact, some of the short videos posted by ProBoyNick on his Instagram.

Pedestrian gates to avoid jaywalking

Wuhan: Authorities in the Chinese city of Wuhan have recently equipped busy intersections with automatic pedestrian gates that only open when the traffic light turns green. The measure is aimed at preventing jaywalking, which has become a serious problem in many urban centres across China.

Jaywalking in the Asian country, often referred to as "Chinese-style street crossing," often involves pedestrians completely ignoring traffic signals and crossing busy streets and roads, usually in large groups.

In the past couple of years, a variety of bizarre measures taken for jaywalking, including shaming offenders by making them wear green caps, painting red lines on the pavement to make people think twice before crossing a road, but these haven't been working too well either.

Now, traffic officials in Wuhan, China's Hubei province, are trying a different approach – stopping people from jaywalking in busy intersections with the helps of automated pedestrian gates. For now, they have only been installed on either side of several pedestrian crossing, but if they prove effective, authorities plan to have them installed all around the city.

Hasten work on Lansdowne building

Sir,

India boasts of over 5,000 years of civilisation and rich heritage. Karnataka (the erstwhile Mysore State) is one of the front-runners in being an essential part and contributor to this heritage.

While Bangalore, the new Bengaluru, is not only the capital of the State but also the IT capital of India, Mysuru, the Garden City of the Maharajas and the Numero Uno City of Swachh Bharat in the very first year of reckoning, is an internationally recognised Cultural and Heritage City of Beauty and Palaces.

The main drive of Mysuru city, the heart of the business centre, even today is the one and only Sayyaji Rao Road. It is so because it is surrounded and bound by historical and well-known Mysore Palace, the Wadiyar Statues, Town Hall, Parks and Gardens, the Palace Offices including the famous "Moti Khana" building etc.

Sayyaji Rao Road leads to the century-old heritage Lansdowne building. It is unfortunate that this landmark double-storeyed lengthy beautiful building of immense heritage value did not get the due attention in maintaining it properly periodically though it is less than half-a-kilometre from the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Office, which also owns it.

It is the earnest request of we Mysureans to CM Siddharamaiah to intervene in the matter and give us the glorious Lansdowne building back.

H.Y. Meti to be re-inducted into Cabinet?

H.Y. Meti

Geetha

Bengaluru, Apr. 23 (KMS&DM)- Former Minister H.Y. Meti, who was forced to quit the Siddharamaiah Cabinet following a sex scam in December last, is likely to be re-inducted into the Cabinet.

Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, who flew to New Delhi yesterday to take part in the NITI Ayog meeting today, is likely to meet the Congress High Command and discuss Cabinet expansion, to fill up two vacancies.

Although Siddharamaiah had discussed Cabinet expansion with the party High Command earlier this month, there was not much progress in this regard.

Now, Siddharamaiah who seems to be keen on filling up two vacant berths in his Cabinet, in order to accommodate his close associate H.Y. Meti and Dr. Geetha Mahadevaprasad, who won the Gundlupet by-poll recently.

The CID, which conducted a probe into the sex scam allegedly involving H.Y. Meti, is likely to submit its report on Apr. 28, giving a clean chit to the former Minister, according to sources.

H.Y. Meti is likely to get a clean chit just as Minister K.J. George was given the same by the CID in Dy.SP M.K. Ganapathy suicide case. Once re-inducted, Meti is likely to get Excise Department, a portfolio which be held earlier. However, it is not known which portfolio will Geetha Mahadevaprasad will get, if she is inducted into the Cabinet.

Meanwhile, Siddharamaiah's visit to New Delhi in the name of NITI Ayog meeting has assumed significance, as Siddharamaiah had most of the times skipped meetings of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Eshwarappa supporters want party to reign in Yeddyurappa

Eshwarappa

Yeddyurappa

Bengaluru, Apr.23 (KMS&DM)- Even as the BJP braces for the 2018 Assembly election, dissension has continued to haunt the party, with State BJP Chief Yeddyurappa's friend-turned-foe K.S. Eshwarappa and his supporters deciding to exert pressure on the BJP top brass to save the party from the clutches of Yeddyurappa.

Eshwarappa's supporters have convened a meeting at the Palace Grounds in Bengaluru on Apr.27 in which hundreds of local party leaders and from other parts of the state are expected to take part.

At the meeting, the leaders are likely to take a decision on exerting pressure on the BJP Central leadership to put a brake to Yeddyurappa's unilateral decisions, which have been severely hurting the party.

Eshwarappa faction is of the opinion that Yeddyurappa had miserably failed in strengthening the party organisation.

Accusing Yeddyurappa of appointing only his followers to key party posts, the dissident leaders said most of Yeddyurappa's decisions have caused damage to the party, rather than strengthening it.

These leaders point out that the failure of the party to win the Nanjangud and Gundlupet by-polls, despite favourable response from the voters during the campaign, is an example of the failure of Yeddyurappa's leadership.

The dissident leaders are also said to be seeking a change in leadership of the party in the backdrop of by-poll defeat.

Naga drops a new bomb

Says Ministers, officials involved in Black and White money conversion racket

Nagaraj

Bengaluru, Apr. 23 - Former Corporator and rowdy-sheeter Nagaraj alias 'Bomb' Naga has released a video alleging that a few Ministers including IPS officers, were involved in the conversion of demonetised currencies into new ones in the city.

He also alleged that he was very much present in his stronghold Srirampura and accused the cops of plotting to eliminate him in a fake encounter.

Nagaraj also claimed that a copy of his 'video message' had been sent to the city Police Commissioner.

Nagaraj can be reportedly heard in the video saying that he is in the city and is not absconding as projected by the Police. He has further stated that Rs 10 crore deal has been made to encounter him on Apr. 14, following which the Police team came to his house to kill him.

Meanwhile, Home Minister G. Parameshwara, reacting to Nagaraj's allegations, said that Nagaraj would be arrested soon and further investigations would reveal more details about the case.

Senior Police officials refused to comment on Nagaraj's claim but reiterated that he would be arrested soon. Nagaraj has already applied for anticipatory bail last week.

Search Panel to finalise UoM V-C probables will meet in May

State Government steps in to end fight between University of Mysore Acting V-C and Registrar

Mysuru, Apr. 23- Looks like the State Government has finally woken up to the ugly public spat between Acting Vice-Chancellor of University of Mysore Prof. Dayanand Mane and Registrar Prof. R. Rajanna as it has asked the Search Committee constituted to appoint a new Vice-Chancellor to meet in May to finalise probable candidates.

The war of words indulged by Prof. Mane and Prof. Rajanna has already divided the student and the teaching community in the university who are giving statements in favour of either Prof. Rajanna or Prof. Mane justifying each other.

The Search Committee's responsibility is to finalise a list of three probable candidates and submit it to the Higher Education Department which will forward it (after its approval of one name) to the Governor who is the Chancellor of Universities in Karnataka for approval. The committee is expected to complete its assignment in one sitting.

According to sources in the Higher Education Department, the Panel, that was constituted three months ago, has been asked to meet in May to speed up the V-C appointment process. With this, the State Government is trying to end the fight between the Acting V-C and the Registrar – the two high-ranking authorities of the University.

The Search Committee is headed by former Vice-Chancellor of Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU) Prof. H.P. Khincha and the other members are V-C of the Central University (Kalaburagi) Prof. H.M. Maheshwaraiah, UGC Member V.S. Chauhan and former UGC Chairman Prof. Hari Gautham. While Prof. Khincha is the nominee of the State Government, Chauhan is the UGC representative and Hari Gautham is the nominee of University of Mysore. Prof. Maheshwaraiah is the Governor's nominee.

The University of Mysore's Vice-Chancellor's post has been lying vacant since Jan. 10 this year after incumbent V-C Prof. K.S. Rangappa demitted office following the completion of a 4-year term.

Though the Search Committee was constituted soon after Prof Rangappa's demitting office, it had not met as there was a controversy regarding one of its members Prof. M. Muniyamma.

The appointment of former Gulbarga V-C Muniyamma had created a controversy as she had earlier worked as a Professor in the University of Mysore and as per norms, the Search Committee must have only those members who do not have any association with the university.

This controversy made Governor Vajubhai Rudabhai Vala, who had nominated her as his representative, to replace her and appoint Prof. Maheshwaraiah.

There are more than 150 aspirants to the V-C's post and the Search Committee has a tough task in the selection.

Saligrama (K.R. Nagar) Former Vice-Chancellor of the University of Mysore (UoM) Prof. K.S. Rangappa has said that he would join politics in order to bring in a change in academics.

Kumaraswamy have been pressurising me to join JD(S) to strengthen the education sector in the State and to bring about radical changes in academics," he told reporters yesterday after attending a programme at the Government First Grade College at Saligrama.

"I am not entering politics to indulge in politics, but, the JD(S) leaders are asking me to join the party to reform the education system," he added. When asked from which constituency he would contest, Prof. Rangappa said that he would contest from Chamaraja Assembly segment in the 2018 elections.

It may be mentioned here that Prof. Rangappa is a close relative of former PM H.D. Deve Gowda.

Mysuru, Apr.23- India is the fifth largest producer of e-waste in the world, said R. Ravindra, General Manager of E-Parisaraa, Bengaluru.

He was speaking during the Awareness Session on 'E-Waste Management and Collection Drive' organised by CII, Mysuru at SJCE-STEP here on Saturday on the occasion of World Earth Day.

He said, "Most of us don't know how to handle e-waste. Huge space is occupied by these unused products. E-waste consists of electrical and electronic equipment waste; e-waste is not a waste, in fact it is a wealth. Even the waste battery do have a wealth in it like the presence of lithium in it. In foreign and developed countries, the method of e-waste is placed on the road side while in India we keep it in cupboards and in the process going into unorganised sector creating damage to environment."

"In India, annually we produce 2.7 million tonnes of e-waste; we stand fifth in terms of producer of e-waste in the world. In disposing e-waste in unscientific manner, where it is undertaken by people in small places without any safety protections, people suffer from various health complications. Apart from this, children start suffering from young age," he said.

"The other major concern in disposing waste in unorganised sector is the remains of what is not wanted is just let out in drain, soil and air polluting air, water and soil. Since October 2016, the State Pollution Board is going all out in its effort on this issue. In days to come these issues will gradually come down," added Ravindra.

Sabike Noobia, Assistant Environmental Officer, Karnataka State Pollution Control Board, Mysuru, who also spoke, briefed about the rules and regulations that KSPCB has enforced on all the industries.

"Most of the industries are under control but it's not the same with education industry or other Government industry wherein they are not able to find the right place to recycle e-waste. India annually generates 4 lakh tonnes of e-waste, which is next only to China in the world. In India, Karnataka ranks sixth in generating e-waste," she said and added India and China have become global recycling hub for the e-waste generated world over.

"E-waste is also hazardous as it contains many toxic and hazardous ingredients such as heavy metals like lead, cadmium and mercury polychlorinated biphenyl, brominated flames retardants that have the potential to cause environmental pollution and pose health hazards when processed, recycled or disposed off. The toxic substances present in the waste render it hazardous only when such wastes are dismantled and processed without taking adequate precautions," she said and also mentioned that most of e-waste in Mysuru city is treated in an informal way.

V. K. Shanmugam, Vice-Chairman, CII Mysuru and Mahesh Jambardi, COO, Excelsoft Technologies, too spoke on the topic. Rakesh Babu, Director, Innomantra Consulting, was present.

Take a bite: Mango fever grips city

Prices are affordable; have gone up only by 5 percent compared to last year, say traders

Vendors selling mangoes in pushcarts on Crawford Hall Road.

By S. Kenneth Shishir

Growing larger and slowly changing from bright green to glowing yellow, the ripening mangos now dominate Mysuru markets. And every Mysurean — young and the old — is keen on titillating his/ her taste-buds.

The first crop arrived in early March, a month before the actual season, triggering brisk business. While traders were purring with delight, mango connoisseurs were wary of the pre-season arrival of the fruit as it might be due to artificial ripening, which may mean loss of taste. "Mangoes that have arrived after April 10 can be purchased with trust and are tasty as it is normal for this time of the year to relish juicy mangoes," say traders.

Akbar Road in Mandi Mohalla is teeming with a wide variety of mangoes. And the good news is that the prices are on the lower side. "Usually, mango season begins by April. But for the past few years, business has been kicking off from the beginning of March," said Mohammed Muzamil, a mango trader on Akbar Road.

On Akbar Road, one can find various varieties of the fruit including Rathnagiri Alphonso, Mallika, Neelam, Sakkara Katte, Baganapalli, Kesar, Dussheri, Mallika and Valaja, apart from the local varieties grown in and around Mysuru.

Mangoes arrive at Mysuru markets from Nanjangud and surrounding areas, Yelwal, Bilikere, Hura, Herale, Hullahalli, Hunsur, K.R. Nagar and H.D. Kote, Gundlupet, Chamarajanagar, Channapattana and Ramanagaram.

Nagavala abuzz with mango trade

Nagavala and its surrounding areas on the Mysuru-Madikeri Highway before Hunsur is bustling with activities as hundreds of pushcarts are selling luscious mangoes on both sides of the road.

Ripe mangoes are arranged like pyramids on the pushcarts to grab the attention of hundreds of vehicles that pass on the road and as soon as a vehicle stops, vendors crowd them with a handful of mangoes urging the occupants of the vehicle to have a look at their fruits. The vendors claim that the fruits are delicious and chemical-free.

However, the prices are bargained for and sometimes depend on the model of the vehicle — the swanker the vehicle the higher are the prices!

The sales, which started a month ago, gained momentum recently with a surge in the supply. Mangoes are supplied from Nagavala, Benkipura, Halebeedu, Bilikere, Bettadabeedu, Beerihundi, Hullahalli and other villages.

Raw mangoes being sorted out as per size for ripening.

When the supply from the mango orchards in the State declines, traders purchase the fruit from the orchards in Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh. Mangoes are grown on 4,435 hectares in Mysuru district.

Mohammed Muzamil, whose entire family is into this business since about 35 years told Star of Mysore that though the yield of mango has come down by about 60% due to lack of rain, yet prices are affordable at least for now.

But according to wholesalers, despite early arrival of the fruit, sales have not picked up. Mango lovers are worried about the taste of the early arrivals and prices are in control due to poor demand. "Now with April, demand will increase and supplies will not match. This is when prices will soar," Muzamil said. When compared to this time last year, prices have gone up by about 5 percent.

He said that while most mango growers bring their produce to the Agriculture Produce Marketing Committee (APMC) at Bandipalya, there are traders who take mango orchards on lease from farm owners for a year. Muzamil said that he has been receiving good response from customers and he is selling about 1.5 tonnes of mangoes every day.

Speaking about ripening process, Muzamil said that the raw mangoes are filled in plastic crates and ethylene is sprayed to hasten ripening. At present, Badami variety is being sold at Rs. 50-60 per kg, Sindoora at Rs. 15-20, Rasapuri at Rs. 25-30, Valaja at Rs. 35-40; Baganapalli at Rs. 25-30, Mallika at Rs. 25-30 and Thotapuri at Rs. 10-15 per kg.

Doctors to face strict action if they fail to prescribe generic drugs: MCI

New Delhi, Apr. 23- The country's apex medical regulator, Medical Council of India (MCI), has warned doctors of action if they fail to adhere to its guideline on prescribing drugs in generic names.

The MCI's directive comes days after Prime Minister Narendra Modi spoke of putting in place a legal framework to ensure that doctors prescribed low-cost generic medicines to patients.

On Friday, the regulator's body reminded doctors that prescriptions had to be legible, preferably in capital letters, and there had to be a "rational" prescription on the use of drugs, failing which "strict disciplinary action" would be taken.

The MCI has asked the medical community to follow its 2016 notification in which it had amended clause 1.5 of the Indian Medical Council (Professional Conduct, Etiquette and Ethics) Regulations, 2002, in this regard.

Recently, while inaugurating a multi-speciality hospital in Surat, Modi had said that doctors write prescriptions in such a way that poor people do not understand their handwriting and they end up buying medicines from private stores at high prices.

"All the registered medical practitioners under the IMC Act are directed to comply with the aforesaid provisions of the regulations without fail," said the MCI circular, issued to the Deans, Principals of Medical Colleges, Directors of Hospitals and Presidents of all State Medical Councils.

The Government is also revising the National List of Essential Medicines of 2015 to include more medicines. The 'Jan Aushadhi' programme, under which the Government provides essential medicines at reasonable rates at specially established shops, is also being reinforced.

Jagadeesha said that certain shop owners on both the roads park their own vehicles depriving the facility to shoppers. "We have seen that shop owners bring their cars (sometimes owners of one shop bring two to three cars) and park from morning till evening. This has led to a lot of inconvenience to shoppers, tourists and other visitors. We want to prevent this," he said.

"We have received a lot of complaints from the public and shoppers about the lack of parking space and the constant traffic jams on both the roads. No Parking Zones will solve these problems, he added.

After a series of discussion within the MCC and with District In-charge Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa, the MCC had recently floated tenders. "As the tender norms were stringent, there was less response. We have discussed this with the Minister and have relaxed a couple of norms. We will again call for tender next week," he said and added that the parking charges have not yet been fixed.

The multi-level parking system at the Town Hall and a separate parking facility for two-wheelers can accommodate 450 to 500 cars and over 1,000 two-wheelers. "The works have not yet been completed as the contractor has defaulted. We have blacklisted the contractor and fresh tender will be called to complete the works," Jagadeesha added.

It may be recalled here that District In-charge Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa had recently asked the MCC and MUDA authorities to find suitable places to construct multi-level parking plazas near the Devaraj Urs Road and the Sayyaji Rao Road and restrict the movement of vehicles on them.

"In many countries, parking of vehicles was not allowed on busy roads. People will have to walk for one or two kilometres to park their vehicles in the designated lot. This has prevented accidents and facilitated hassle-free shopping," he had said.

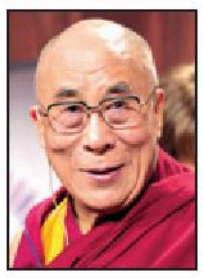
India's China War of 1962
A Historical Review
In the context of Dalai Lama's recent visit to Tawang and Bomdila



By U. B. Acharya

PREAMBLE

On 20th October 1962, we the students living in the hostel heard the news that in the early hours of that morning, Chinese forces had run over our positions along the NEFA (now Arunachal Pradesh) border killing several of our jawans and junior officers. For the next one month all of us were glued to the common room's radio listening to the hourly news bulletins of BBC. We literally wept when we heard the news of successive army positions in NEFA run over by the advancing forces or evacuated voluntarily by our commanders leaving the dead and the wounded to fend for themselves.

By 19th November, the Chinese forces had occupied Tawang and Bomdila and were on the foothills ready to run over the whole State of Assam. Surprisingly, China declared unilateral cease-fire from 20th November, and in fact withdrew to the pre 20th October position! It was no doubt an utter and humiliating defeat of India by the belligerent China.

In order to know the genesis, we need to dig deep into the history of India during the British Raj as well as the first 15 years of independent India.

INDIA UNDER THE BRITISH RAJ

The British having annexed the entire country were protective of their boundaries. They would either limit their boundary which they could defend easily or have a buffer country between them and the more powerful enemy. In the North-West, Afghanistan was the buffer country between India and Imperial Russia. In the North, the boundary of Kashmir and Ladakh (which included the Aksai Chin) was itself a formidable boundary.

In the North-East sector, the Himalayas were a natural boundary. Beyond the Himalayas was a vast country of Tibet, an independent country under the leadership of the Dalai Lama. But Britain cunningly let the eastern portion of Tibet be under Chinese control and keep the western portion facing India under its control. The boundary line (the watershed line called the McMahon Line) between India and Tibet was agreed in Simla Conference in 1914. Unfortunately, this line was never demarcated and also near the tri-junction of Tibet-Bhutan-India, there were some errors.

Tawang monastery had always been under the control of Tibet though it was south of the Himalayan watershed. Tibet secretly agreed to give up this area to British India in exchange of 5,000 Lee Enfield rifles and 500,000 rounds of ammunition (to be used against China). Chinese have never been able to accept this loss of Tawang.

INDEPENDENT INDIA: 1947-1958

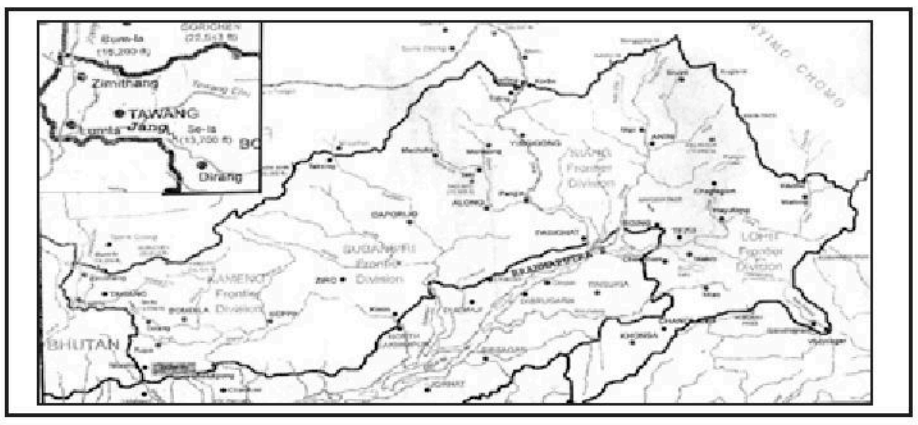
India achieved its independence in 1947 and the army was divided between India and Pakistan. Before India could replenish the army, Kashmir conflict started. The history of Kashmir conflict of 1948 will not be repeated here but suffice is to say that India has been maintaining a substantial army along the Line of Control and also inside Kashmir but neglected the border with China.

During the 1950s, the budget for the military was progressively reduced because of the five-year plans and other nation-building projects. Also among the top politicians and bureaucrats, there was an inherent fear that military might take over the government and so they were suppressed.

CHINESE EXPANSION POLICY

In 1949, Mao Tse-tung's Communists defeated the army of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's government. Mao then boldly annexed Sinkiang in 1950 and also annexed the portion of Tibet (which was autonomous under the British control but passed on to India) in 1951. Though USA and Britain protested this move, India strongly supported China and accepted Chinese control over Tibet. It turned out later that this was the biggest folly of Nehru.

A study of the map would indicate that Aksai Chin protruded like a wedge between Sinkiang and Tibet. Prior to 1947, Kashmir State Forces regularly guarded the entire Aksai Chin. Post liberation of Kashmir, this practice was discontinued. Absence of Indian military presence in Aksai Chin made it a low hanging fruit for China.



And in 1955, China boldly started building a road (roughly N-S) across Aksai Chin and they completed the road construction by 1958. As Nehru was on a grand "Non-Alliance" movement, "Panch-Sheel" and "Hindi-Chini Bhai Bhai" mode, Chou En-lai was confident that Nehru could be persuaded to accept it. Having constructed the road, the Chinese then stationed troops to protect it.

During this period, Chinese official maps were showing not only Aksai Chin (39,000 sq kms) but also the entire NEFA (83,000 sq kms) as parts of China. When India took this matter up, China just brushed aside by saying that these maps were from the old regime and they had not yet updated them!

INDIA: 1958-1962

When India woke up to this fait accompli, it was not in a position to challenge the intrusion. On top of this, the press and the opposition were at the throat of the Government. Nehru initially denied in the Parliament that there was any Chinese intrusion but when Chinese press announced the grand opening of the road, he had to admit this fact. He then took up the line that the Indian army was capable of throwing the Chinese out of our territory. Thanks to the step-motherly treatment of the army, they were just not in a position to accomplish this.

Chinese meanwhile were willing to negotiate provided they keep the area under their control (that is, Aksai Chin) and India keeps the area under its control (that is, NEFA) with minor boundary adjustments. As this was not acceptable to India, it thought of a "Forward Policy" where Indian army was asked to establish army outposts all along the Chinese claim line and in some places inside Chinese claimed territory.

Unfortunately, Indian military infrastructure (like rail head, roads, dropping zones, arms and ammunition, winter clothing, etc.) were just not adequate to successfully implement this policy. Apart from the thin first line of offence, there was no second or third line of proper fortification. With the implementation of the forward policy, the point of collision was reached but India (read Nehru, Menon, Intelligence head Mullick and Nehru's blue eyed army officer Lt. Gen. B.M. Kaul) was still confident that in this game of chicken, China would buckle under!

While arguments and counter arguments were heating up, in 1959 there was an internal rebellion against China in Tibet led by Dalai Lama. This was crushed by China and Dalai Lama had to escape to India in disguise via the Tawang tract. China demanded that India return Dalai Lama to them, but India refused. During the same year, there were two minor skirmishes in NEFA border and one in Ladakh Area. In all these cases, Chinese had the upper hand.

INDIA CHINA WAR
10TH OCT. TO 19TH NOV., 1962

The gory details of the war will not be discussed here but suffice is to say that our attempt to force the Chinese out from the Thagla Ridge (near the tri-junction of China-India-Bhutan borders) on 10th of October 1962 sparked the conflict. Then on 20th October morning Chinese troops opened multiple fronts at Aksai Chin as well as at NEFA. While there was some fighting in Aksai Chin front and in Walong sector of NEFA, there was full retreat in Thagla-Tawang-Bomdila sector. By 18th November, the army had retreated beyond Bomdila. Let down by its senior officers, the Indian Army and the people of Assam now lay at the mercy of Chinese.

In the final countdown, India had lost nearly 3,000 soldiers dead or missing and about 4,000 soldiers taken prisoners. Though we were supposed to have killed a few hundred Chinese soldiers, we did not capture a single POW.

AFTERMATH & ULTIMATE ANALYSIS

In the confusion of the immediate aftermath of the ceasefire, the spotlight was obviously on the higher levels of the command. In the history of modern warfare, it is doubtful if there are any Generals at the top of a command pyramid who have displayed such collective incompetence. The jawans, JCOs and junior officers bewildered by the turn of events and trusting in their commanding officers can hardly be faulted. YET IT WAS THEY WHO HAD TO COLLECTIVELY PAY THE PRICE.

Though the top political plus bureaucratic leadership and the senior most army Generals are responsible for the debacle, ultimately Nehru has to take the blame. While Menon was forced to resign, Nehru continued as PM till his death in May 1964. Many senior Generals, instead of court marshaled and summarily sacked, were allowed to continue.

WAY FORWARD

Even after 54 years, the position remains the same on the ground. Unless some very fundamental changes occur internally in China, it would be impossible for India to reclaim the Aksai Chin territory. Even today, Chinese maps show the entire Arunachal Pradesh as their territory. Meanwhile, Dalai Lama continues to remain in exile in India.

As Chinese GDP is considerably higher than India's, New Delhi may be a distant speck in Beijing's rear view mirror. It will only begin to respect India's concern if it sees that speck in its rear view mirror grow larger. To that to happen, India's economy must grow faster than that of China. This is possible by solving the Kashmir problem, by removing all the internal security issues and by bringing about complete national unity. Also political and bureaucratic corruption would have to disappear. In addition, our relationship with all the neighbouring countries such as Nepal, Bhutan, Sri Lanka, Myanmar, Malaysia, Indonesia, Philippines, South Korea and Japan must improve dramatically. All these may be a distant dream.

Under this climate, Dalai Lama's visit to Tawang monastery in April 2017 is very significant. China strongly protested this visit and even threatened India. His successful visit is in fact a minor diplomatic victory to India. India needs to do much more than this to pressurise China.

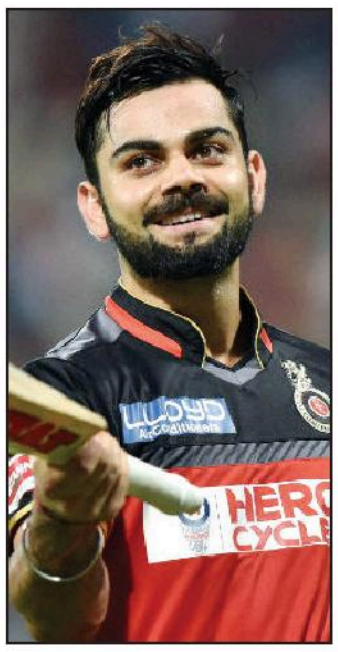
RCB to take on KKR in a keen contest



Kolkata, Apr. 23- Royal Challengers Bangalore, after overcoming their early season hiccups, will take on Kolkata Knight Riders and the tie is all set for a stern test for both the teams at the Eden Gardens here tonight. Kolkata Knight Riders with four wins from six outings, will have to gear up from their Friday's loss and should be more ruthless in their batting. After losing two matches after setting targets, KKR has to get out of the 'chasers only' tag.

Royal Challengers Bangalore with the in-form Chris Gayle, captain Virat Kohli, Travis Head and Kedar Jhadav are in for a run-feast at the Eden Gardens.

A.B.de Villier's availability will bolster RCB's batting.

Royal Challengers has overcome the early losses and has started to combine well as a team with their batters performing well in the recent games. It's batting performance against Gujarat Lions was outstanding and if they continue to bat in that fashion, their rivals will have a tough time.

Kolkata Knight Riders' skipper Gautham Gambhir will have to come good with the bat and will also have to choose the right combination from his wide choice of bowlers.

An interesting tussle will be on with the bat and ball and the Kolkata crowd will hope for a rain-free tie to witness their stars in action.

Mysore Brothers perform at Bidaram Krishnappa Rama Mandira

The torch-bearers of Mysore Violin bani, Mysore Nagaraj and Dr. Mysore Manjunath bring in their own distinctive style to mark their legacy. Trained by their father veteran Prof. Mahadevappa, the Mysore Brothers have created an unrivalled record as star performers all over the globe.

At their recent concert for Bidaram Krishnappa Rama Mandira's centenary celebrations, they displayed how one can stay true to the grammar yet push the creative boundaries. Throughout the concert the melody remained intact despite the artistes bringing in uniqueness to their presentation. The jam-packed Bidaram witnessed one of the most memorable concerts in recent times. It was a perfect ambience at the century-old heritage venue of cultural capital with star performers performing for highly receptive audience last Sunday.

They made a grand opening with a Kriti of Thyagaraja "Ra Rama enti" in the raga Asaveri with the essence of raga reflecting in every note. Similarly, the swarakalpana that followed the next piece 'Maarubalka' in Sree Ranjini was a charming cluster of swaras.

'Mamava meenakshi' in Varali, a Dikshitar composition , was given momentous treatment. When Nerval is almost a forgotten subject with respect to instrumental playing, the duo relinquished an approach to subtly intonate the beginning of the lines 'Shyame,' 'Shankari' 'Digvijaya' delivering a pure and class definition for Sahitya Vinyasa. Tyagaraja's 'Sarasa Saamadhana' and 'Marugelara' were fillers before the main piece.

The effulgent Kamboji was given note-to-note treatment in all the three octaves during the alapana. The already established sangatis of the raga were either suffixed or prefixed with natural manodharma patterns which added luminosity to gold. Towards the end of the alapana, a fragile kakali Nishada prayoga was Lakshya-Lakshana sampradaya portrayal of the raga lakshana. A vilamba kriti "Oo Rangashaayi" drew several sangatis giving a fine sketch of the raga.

The musical world has to be indebted to Saint Thyagaraja for endorsing his musical brilliance into a compositional form. 'Bhuloka Vaikuntam' was treated with brisk Swara patterns followed by a Korpu and Mukthayi.

The veteran Dr. Umayalapuram Shivaraman played in a vivid manner as he always does; his showmanship coming to the fore in the thani with Giridhar Udupa. Shivaraman has an incredible reputation as a king of mridanga in modern times. The duo's rhythmic sallies were like a pyrotechnic display. The closing part comprised the delicate 'Nannu Vidachi' in Reetigowla (Tyagaraja), the spry 'Radha Sametha Krishna' in Yamuna Kalyani and the lilting Western votes pupularised by Madurai Mani Iyer.

WORD OF THE DAY

Oneiric

Pronunciation: oh-nahy-rik
Meaning: Of, pertaining to, or suggestive of dreams; dreamy.
Example: Her large images, which are cloaked in an elegant oneiric mist, transport the viewer to an ideal world where bodies seem to have become weightless ghosts of themselves.
Origin: The word Oneiric comes from the Greek word oneiros which means dream.

THE ODD WORD

Ensorcell

To enchant or fascinate someone.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Ups-a-daisy

Meaning: An exclamation made when encouraging a child to get up after a fall or when lifting a child into the air.
Origin: It is difficult to choose which of the numerous variants of the expression to use as the heading of this piece. As with many words that are said to small children, it is more often a spoken term than one that appears in print and this has led to much inconsistency about how it is spelled. In fact, there is not a single term that appears in so many different spellings; for example:
Upsidaisy
Upsa daesy
Upsy-daisy
Oops-a-daisy
Oopsy-daisy
Hoops-a-daisy
The form in which it is now most commonly spoken and spelled is 'oops-a-daisy'. The first known printed record of any form of the term is in Clough Robinson's The dialect of Leeds and its neighbourhood, 1862:
"Upsa daesy! a common ejaculation when a child, in play, is assisted in a spring-leap from the ground."
